THEYCOULDN'T HITTHEBALL

The Indianapolis Players Had Plenty of Chances to Win Yesterday's Game,

But They Couldn't Hit the Ball at the Right Time, and Lost the Closing Contest of the Series-Other Ball Games Yesterday.

pecial to the Indianapolis Journal

Washington, June 12 .- The Hoosiers dropped their last game here to-day, principally through their inability to hit O'Day when men were on bases. The 250 spectators exhausted their enthusiasm in the first two innings, when Washington made all of her runs. Had the Indianapolis club played the fielding game of the previous exhibitions, Washington would have been shut out and the Hoosiers would have closed their first series with the local team with four victories to their credit. In the first inning, after Hoy had gone out to Seery, Wilmot was given his base on balls. Daly was also retired by Seery, but Schoch went to first on an error and O'Brien was given five bad balls. Meyers then worked in a hit to right, and Wilmot and School scored. Again, in the second, after two men were out. Hoy batted toward second base and Bassett tried to make a circus play by going after the ball with one hand; the result was that Hoy took first on the error. There was no exsuse for this error of Bassett's, as the ball was peither hit hard nor slow, but was one of those easy bounding balls that can be managed with two hands every time. The local players, ancouraged at this bad break, drove base hit after base hit, and the result was that when O'Brien went out at first, on a weak hit to Shreve, Washington had added three runns to their score. The runs were made in this man-Bor: With Hoy on first, Wilmot hit to right venter for three bases and scored on Daily's Irive over McGeachy's head. Daily scored a moment later on Schoch's single. Indianapolis parned one run in the fifth inning, after Buckley and retired on a fly to Wilmot. Shreve hit for a base, made a clean steal to second and scored on Seery's hit to Hoy, Seery taking second on the throw home. Glasscock was hit by a pitched ball and took first; Seery made a very pretty steel of third, and Glasscock went to second on the play. With a man on third and one on second, Hines fouled out and Denny struck out. In the first, second, third, fourth, fifth and pighth innings the Hoosiers had men on third, but O'Day succeeded in keeping them there—the secessary hit could not be made off him. The game was slow and uninteresting. The fielding of the Washingtons was much worse than that if the Hoosiers, but the home team's errors had no effect on the score. No less than five easy no effect on the score. No less than five easy by balls were muffed by the local players.

A very foolish rumor has gone forth that Manager Spence, of the Indianapolis club, is to be replaced by Frank Bancroft, the old-time Providence and Cleveland manager, now at the head of the Buffalo club. If there is any truth in the rumor it must be because Mr. Spence has tired of the club, and not because there is any dissatisfaction with him, for he has done nothing to indicate him anything less than a first-class man for the place. It is true that his work has been criticised by those who were undoubtedly honest in their inten-tions, and yet if they could get far enough away from their zeal in behalf of the success of the club to look at matters dispassionately they would see that no manager in the country, under equally favorable conditions, has gotten better, if as good, work out of his team.
Mr. Spence began by getting a better schedule for the Indianapolis team than a seventh or eighth place team has ever had, and since taking charge of the men has gotten as good work out of them as anyone in the country would have done, with the possible exception of Anson and Comiskey. Whatever failings the team has had have been in Re way due to the manager. The great difficulty with teams which occupy a poor place in the championship race is that everybody is hunting for some explanation of the fact other than that it is because it has not the players to do better. Hard luck, poor management, and so on, are thus frequently charged, where they do not actually exist. Mr. Spence has made a good impression among base-ball men the country over, with whom he has come in contact, and in no sense has his work here been a failure. He has weakness, perhaps, of not getting into the goods praces of everyone, but that is not essential to his success with the ball club, although it may be to his popularity. Judging from the amount of talk there has been concerning the work of Mr. Spence this year, it is not surprising that Indianapolis had the experience they did with managers last year. Base-Ball Notes. The Pittsburge have released pitcher Hender-

END OF THE EDUCATIONAL YEAR.

Butler University Students and Friends En-Joying Commencement Week. The five literary societies at Butler are much more enthusiastically supported and evenly balanced than the literary societies in the average Western college; and the secrety exhibitions which occur during commencement week are, consequently, inferior in interest and importance to none of the public exercises of the college year. The Philokarian, which gave its exhibition last night, is the youngest of the gentlemen's societies, and was formerly known as the "preachers' society." Though its membership roll has still a large per cent, of ministerial students, it no longer limits its privileges to the theologically inclined, and is, in most respects, quite like its more worldly rivals. The orators last night were W. J. Russell and A. J. Le Miller. Mr. Russell is the paster of the Sixth Coristian the paster of the Sixth Christian Church, of this city, and distinguished himself by taking second prize in the intercollegiate prohibition contest which occurred here last January. His theme was "Christianity or Infidelity; Which?" Mr. Le Miller, who has also distinguished himself in contesting oratory, being second-prize orator of his class, gave one of his customarily thoughtful speeches, his subject being 'Moral Individuality."

A. J. Sherry interested his andience with an essay on 'Political Rights of Women." L. J. Morgan declaimed "Unjust National Acquisitions." Tom C. Howe, of the budding senior class, presented diplomas to the society's graduates, Messrs. Mullendarr, Pearcy, Hall, Morgan. Smith and McCallough, for whom Mr. Mullendarr responded. Four of these graduates will enter the ministry, and the other two will teach. An Italian archestra furnished most of the music of the evening, but its performances were sic of the evening, but its performances were supplemented by the seniors, who sang a highly original song, and by the entire society, which resolved itself into a barn-yard orchestra, with much success. This morning, at 10 o'clock, the young ladies of the Demia Butler society hold their exercises. They have a large number of friends in the city, and a full outside attendance is expected. The graduating class will celebrate class day this afternoon at 2 o'clock, and their performances promise to be even more interesting than usual. The Mathesian society holds the fort to-night, and literary dissipation will be intermitted to morrow by the physical events of field day and the social enjoyments of Professor Butler's reception. Examinations closed yesterday, and the Butlerites are free to give themselves up to the gayeties of the closing days of school.

Kindergarten Normal Class. The Indiana Kindergarten and Primary Normal Training School graduated its seventh class last night, the exercises being held at the Tabernacle Church. Music was rendered by the choir of the Central-avenue Church, which numbers over fifty voices, and their selections were very much enjoyed. Addresses were made by Rev. R. V. Hunter, Rev. O. C. McCulloch and Rev. Mr. Rondthaler. The latter preseuted the certificates and diplomas, which were given to those who have finished the primary department. They were Miss Ida Perry and Miss Mary Johnson of this city. Certificates to those who finished the Kindergarten, Miss Grace Coffin, of Rockville, Miss Percy Shadday. of Vevay, Miss Avis Morgan, city, and Miss Elizabeth Wallace, of Muscatine, Iowa. Those who went through both departments were Miss Jennie Covert, Miss Susan Todd, city, and Miss Alta Medaris, of Brookston, Ind. The invocation was made by Rev. Mr. Ford, of Central-avenue Church, and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Mr. Swan, of Grace P. E. Church. The literary exercises were of high character. There was an oration by Mr. J. R. Mann, Chicago; a poem by Mrs. Maggie Steward, Robinson, and reminiscences by W. R. Butler, of Cairo. The president, Hop. G. C. Neely, of Chicago, responded to the welcoming address by the regent, Dr. Peabody. Rev. Dr. McPherson, of Chicago gave an eloquent and able address to-night before the literary societies on "Culture and Character."

PROMOTING ETHICAL CULTURE.

A Society for That Purpose Is to Be Estab lished Here by Lecturer Salter.

Mr. Wm. M. Salter, of Chicago, will lecture this evening at Plymouth Church on the subject, "The Basis of the Ethical Culture Movement." This will be the initial step of a movement to establish a society of that kind in this city. It will be similar to those which exist in New York, Philadelphia, Clicinnati, St. Louis, and Chicago. The general aim of the movement, as announced in a constitution adopted by a union of the societies, is "to elevate the moral life of its members and that of the community," and "it cordially welcomes to its fellowship all persons who sympathize with this aim, whatever may be their theological or philosophical opinions." In other words, the movement is one not antagonistic to religion, but regardless of It. The first society was established by Dr. Felix Adler, for many years professor of Oriental languages and literature in Cornell University. In May, 1876, he went to New York city for the purpose of carrying out, if possible, the plan of work which had been in his mind for years. He addressed an audience in Standard Hall on the 'new religion of morality, whose God was the good, whose church was the universe, whose heaven was here on earth, and not in the clouds." At the close of his address it was una nimously resolved that an organization should be effected for the purpose of instituting regular Sunday lectures by Professor Adler during the approaching fall. Officers were elected, and the society was organized with 128 names on its rolis. Before the year was out the audiences which gathered to hear Professor Adler taxed February, 1877, the "Society for Ethical Culture" was legally incorporated. It began soon after to become a prominent factor in charitable work. In January, 1878, a free kindergarten was established on West Fortyfourth street. Joseph Seligman, a wealthy New Yorker, contributed $80,000, and enabled the organization to found also a workingman's school, which was designed to give to the children of the poor a general education and a technical and art education. From a small hall and an annual expenditure of a few hundred dollars it grew into a large edifice, built by the society at a cost of $80,000, and requiring an annual expenditure of $20,000. It now has a staff of eighteen teachers and three hundred and fifty pupils of almost every nationality, race and This society is also credited with establishing the district nursing schools. Trained nurses, paid by the society, visited the poor under the protection of the dispensary physicians. Later on a family home for orphans was established. Branches of the society and its charitable work were soon established in other cities. One of the first things which the society did in New York city was to attack the tenement-house system, and a "Tenement house Reform Asseciation" was ettablished, which will this summer erect in the lower district of New York city eight model tenement buildings.

The Seventeen-Year Locusts.

CHICAGO, June 12.—Dispatches from points in northern lows and western Illinois report the appearance of swarms of seventeer-year locusta.

Prof. C. V. Riley, United States Entomologist, who is at present in Chicago, when asked about the locusts, said that a well-known brood of locusts occurred this year, and this periodical visitor may be looked for in wooded portions of Illinois and Iowa, and also in the following territory, as indicated by the experience of 1871: Wisconsin-Waukesba, Walworth, Jefferson Rock, Green, Dane, Iowa, Grant, Crawford, Richmond and Sauk counties.

Indiana-The boundary in this State is not so well defined, but includes the extreme northwest counties, extending as far south as the Michigan-In this State the southern tier of countles, extending from Lake Michigan east to the middle of the State. Pennsylvania-Lancaster county, the southeast by eastern portion, known as the "Pequoa valley." This locality was not verified in 1871, although there is no doubt of the appearance of the insect in immense numbers in 1854 In reply to a question as to whether the grasshoppers are to be destructive this year, the Professor could not express an opinion. Over three years ago he had been able to confidently state the prospects in advance, but since then he has been unable to get together sufficient data as to the extent of egg deposit to justify prediction. He has just received a telegram from the office FULL WEIGHT
